1 Discrete choice theory

Follow the instructions in the Jupyter notebook linked from the course website.

2 Learning dynamics in games

When we discussed games in class, there were a lot of questions about how people might make decisions in games, and how one might calculate Nash equilibria should they exist. This problem hopes to introduce you to some of the basic ideas in this area of research.

Follow the instructions in the Jupyter notebook linked from the course website.